Miss Vivian Tinsley of Cairo, Ill., Suffered Fractured Skull in Crash With Street Car Sunday.

COMPANION DIED MONDAY OF INJURIES

Machine Struck When O. J. Kerr, Driving, Tried to Reach Crossing Ahead of Car—Both Thrown Out.

Miss Vivian Irene Tinsley, 24 years old, of Cairo, Ill., a nurse, died at 1:50 a. m. today at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, of injuries suffered about 9 p. m. Sunday, when an automobile driven by Orville J. Kerr, 35, a commission merchant of 1018 North Broadway, was struck by a Belleville street car at Fifty-first and State streets, East St. Louis. Kerr died of his injuries early Monday morning.

Miss Tinsley, who was visiting a sister, Mrs. Leo Greenwell, Eighteenth street and St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis, had been riding Sunday afternoon with Kerr and several of his relatives, according to his aunt, Mrs. W. J. Kerr, 268 North Thirty-second street, East St. Louis, who owned the automobile and with whom Kerr lived, and who said that Kerr was taking Miss Tinsley to the home of her sister at the time of the accident.

Witnesses said that Kerr tried to make a crossing ahead of the street car, but failed, the automobile being dragged 50 feet. Miss Tinsley and Kerr were thrown out, falling on their heads. Both suffered fractured skulls. Miss Tinsley never regained consciousness.

Six Injured in Four Automobile Accidents in Day.

James Burke and Edward Ryan, friends of Roy Carper, 1025 North Twenty-second street, were injured at 7 p. m. yesterday when Carper's automobile was wrecked in collision with a Belt line street car at the intersection of North Market street. They were taken away in other automobiles for medical attention before the police arrived and their addresses were not learned. Carper was arrested for careless driving. He said he believed both Burke and Ryan had scalp wounds.

Charles Woodcock, 35, 2617 Cherokee street, suffered injuries to his back and hips when thrown from an automobile driven by Fred Meyer, 1850 South Fourteenth street, in collision with an automobile driven by George Pappagianis, 36, 4723 Newberry terrace, at Fifteenth and Locust streets. Pappagianis was out and bruised and one of his cars lacerated.

Joseph Wallace, 1023 North Thirtieth street, was cut on the head and suffered injury to his left hip when thrown from an automobile driven by Lawrence O'Brien, 1836 Cass avenue, in collision with an automobile of Tony Scheer, 3753 Magnolia avenue, at Broadway and Chouteau avenue.

petitions away from Proske between 810 Chestnut and the city hall.

"What instructions did you have?" Circuit Attorney McDaniel asked.

"Mr. McCulloch told me to get the petitions without regard to consequences."

"I called up Cameron's residence and later Cameron called me at my room, 1009 Pine street. I told him of the plan to get the petitions by taking them away from Proske and others, and getting away in a machine. That was May 7. I said I had five men and that it would cost $50 for each, and he said go ahead."

"After the conversation, about May 8, I had three men look over the building at 615 Chestnut street, where the petitions were kept, to see if they could take the petitions away from Proske as he came there from 810 Chestnut."

"I got the three men on Market street. I never did know their names. I had them become familiar with Proske's appearance."

"The 2 per cent. (first) petitions were to be filed May 9, but the men reported they couldn't get away from there with the petitions, as the street was likely to be closed."

"I told them if it was necessary to get Proske out of the way to No. 50, I meant that they should assault him, hit him on the head, perhaps."

"Jackson identified the dictaphone which he bought from E. C. Pickers and which he had picked install in Proske's office to connect with the office of Petty, the janitor. He also told of having Proske's telephone tapped."

"Cameron Listened."

"The men asked for advance money and I refused to give them any," Jackson then told how he made out his preliminary bills to Cameron and Corley. He said he

Illinois Women Licensed as Methodist Preachers

MRS. HAZEL CAMPBELL and MRS. ADA HAGLER.

MRS. HAZEL CAMPBELL of Granite City and Mrs. Ada Hagler of East St. Louis, Illinois, are the first women licensed as local preachers in the Methodist Church, at the district conference at East St. Louis Tuesday, are the first women in Southern Illinois to receive such license. The General Conference last May granted district conferences the right to license women as preachers.

After taking a four-year course as local preachers, they can be ordained to full pastoral work. As local preachers they may perform marriage ceremonies when serving during the illness or absence of the regular pastor.

Mrs. Campbell is the wife of the Rev. J. W. Campbell, pastor of the Deway Avenue Church at Granite City. Mrs. Hagler is the wife of the Rev. A. A. Hagler, pastor of the St. Luke Church in East St. Louis.

A special session of the East St. Louis District Conference will be held Sept. 16, at Edwardsville, to examine two young women who seek license as local preachers. They are Miss May Paul of Alton and Miss Mary Olive of Edwardsville, evangelists.

James Adams, treasurer for the receiver of the United Railways Co. and former secretary-treasurer of the corporation, and Joseph D. Evans, auditor for the receiver, who was assistant auditor before the receivership, testified at the forenoon session.

Rapid progress was made, in the view of Circuit Attorney McDaniel and his assistants, in establishing the interest of McCulloch in the compromise franchise ordinance, against which the referendum petitions were directed, and in showing the employment of Jackson as an inspector of the corporation.

"I asked Col. Cameron about putting Julian Webster in with Pope and Morgan street inspectors," he said. "Webster and Pope would be in the hall cleaning up at 615 when Proske would bring in the petitions."

"I had men go in and talk to Bellman about employment to become familiar with the place."

"There were three Chicago safe breakers whom Cameron arranged for me to meet, Cameron told me they would tell me they were sent by the Mayor and Aldermen and that I should pay them $500."

"They met me in this way and I gave them the money. They followed Proske around."

"I learned that the petitions were in the wall safe and the Chicago men tried to open it by turning, they told me, but the combination did not work. 'I told McCulloch the men could not get the safe open and he said, bring it out here and I'll open it.'"

Chicago Men Disappear.

Jackson said he had given the Chicago men $250 when $250 and that they planned to use acetylene gas.

"Then they told me they found out who the job was for, that it was for the Chicago men. They said they must have $4500 more, or $5000, for opening the safe and getting the petitions."

"The Chicago men they were talking out of my money and I did not have that much to pay them. I reported to McCulloch. That was when he said to bring the safe out there."

"The Chicago men disappeared. Petty told me he could get men to do the job and I said there would be $1000 in it."

E. C. Kerwin came to see me and I showed him $500. Petty said to pay him $50 and gave me three $20 gold pieces for security."

"That was June 13, 1918. Kerwin said, Adams would help him. He went down and they made arrangements to go there that night. We thought practically all the petitions were in from what we heard on the telephone."

"Green Pope had a negro lodge meeting that night and it was late when Kerwin started trying to drill. Pope complained of the noise they made and said they could not do any more without seeing the big boss meaning me."

Tells of Paying Men.

"I gave Petty $400 June 14 to give Kerwin and Ems if they opened the safe. I went down there. Ems was very contrary and wanted his money. I gave him $150 and he demanded $25 more for the work the night before. I paid it."

"I gave Pope $10 and told him to go out and have a good time and not come back and he didn't."

"I told them to do the job the morning of the 15th. I gave Webster $325 to give them."

"FAITH HEALING IS 'SPONGING' ON GOD," BISHOP QUAYLE SAYS

He Declares Mayor of Cork Should Be Repudiated as a "Fool" for Posing as a Martyr.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Bishop William Quayle, of St. Louis, principal speaker at the camp meeting services at Ocean Grove, N. J., startled his hearers last night when he said:

"Trying to get well by faith healing is (imposing) upon God. We've got doctors and medicines and we ought to use them. We would live for a time without eating, but we don't, as a matter of fact. Don't sponge on God."

The Bishop referred to Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork, declaring: "If he doesn't eat pretty soon he'll be a dead man." He further declared the world should repudiate such a man, "posing as a martyr when he is a fool."

Fairies and Goblins Perform for Children at Municipal Theater

Cast of 955, Nearly All Girls, Enacts "Little Red Riding Hood" as Crowning Event of Annual Playgrounds Festival.

The spirits and fairies and goblins long known by the more trusting to hover about that spot in Forest Park chosen for the Municipal Theater, but which always, when grownups have assembled, have been scattered in fright by the noise and confusion of stagecraft, came in broad daylight yesterday afternoon to the vision of thousands of children who since early morning had frolicked with the sprites of boy attending the annual festival of the children of the city playgrounds.

Though overwise grownups see less clearly in "Never, Never Land," the children, who believed all things good, could not see that he was a very bad wolf, and quite trustingly she told him that she was carrying pies and cakes and was going to her grandmother's house.

Knave Wolf might get her.

Knave Wolf did appear, a very large and a very awful wolf, but he whispered so sweetly into Little Red Riding Hood's ear that she, who believed all things good, could not see that he was a very bad wolf, and quite trustingly she told him that she was carrying pies and cakes and was going to her grandmother's house.

FAIRIES AND GOBLINS PERFORM FOR CHILDREN AT MUNICIPAL THEATRE

Soon she came gayly from the forest and knocked at grandmother's door. It opened and out stepped grandmother—not the real grandmother, for Knave Wolf had put on grandmother's clothes, and though Little Red Riding Hood exclaimed at the size of grandmother's ears and hands, still she thought that Knave Wolf was grandmother.

It was not until she said, "My grandmother, what big teeth you have," that she saw that the grandmother was not grandmother, but Knave Wolf, for he sprang at her, Little Red Riding Hood ran, but she fell, and Knave Wolf was about to seize her, when the real grandmother came back and screamed so loudly that Woodcutter, with his big ax, came running back and chased Knave Wolf away. Soon he returned with Knave Wolf's skin and grandmother and Little Red Riding Hood knew that the Knave Wolf never could harm them any more.

So the Fairy Queen called back all the Sunbeams, Flowers, Rainbows, Butterflies, and they danced in "The Spirit of Laughter" which caused all troubles.

If anyone had counted he would have found that $55 of the sprites and fairies that inhabit the wood appeared at intervals during the journey of Little Red Riding Hood to grandmother's house.

Those in Leading Parts.

Those grown-ups who personally looked at programs were informed that Little Red Riding Hood was Minnie Mendelkern, 12 years old, of the Carr Playgrounds; Woodcutter was Edward Kleiber, a director at the Laclede Playgrounds; Grandmother was Miss Lillian Harrison, a director at the Laclede Playgrounds, who also was Dame Caution; that Fairy Queen was Katherine Brady, 8, of Yeatman Square, and that Peter Rabbit was Peter Goode, 11, of Fairground.

It was announced yesterday that a cycle of 10 pantomimes similar to Little Red Riding Hood would be created, to be given one a year and repeated each 10 years, so that children who once participated in any one, later would be able to view that one as spectators.

Early in the day the children had engaged in athletic contests and games at the cricket grounds in the park. Twenty-three shelter tents, one for each of the playgrounds, had been erected. About 250 children assembled at each tent and the grownups who accompanied them with luncheons made an attendance, which, in spite of frequent rain showers, approached the expected 10,000, which the Park Department said would be a record for the 14 years during which such festivals have been held.

Refreshments Served.

Refreshments were served to the children by the "Pajja" Club, an organization of men who banded themselves together in 1918 for the purpose of interesting public-spirited men and women in the children of the city.

The baseball team from the Buder Playgrounds won the playground championship of the senior division by defeating Yeatman Playgrounds, 7 to 6. The junior championship was won by Pontiac Playgrounds, which defeated Gamble Playgrounds, 9 to 5.

Athletic Contests.

The Riddick Playgrounds, with 16 points, won the Playground Festival athletic meet, which began at 1:30 p. m. yesterday. The Gamble and Lyon Playgrounds tied for second place with 15 points, and Fairground was fourth with 14.

The feature of the meet was the relay race, the last event, which was won by the Fairground team. The runners of the winning team and the Lyon Playgrounds were running almost neck and neck during the entire race, the Fairground runner nailing out his opponent at the end. The Pontiac team was third.

There was difficulty in keeping the enthusiastic spectators off the field during the athletic events, the services of park policemen being necessary on several occasions to aid the field directors in clearing from the field children who were excitedly cheering the teams from their respective playgrounds.

The large double-decker bus was used during the afternoon to give the children rides through the park. The children boarded the bus through windows and climbed up the sides to the top after it was filled to its seating capacity.

Parents of many of the children arrived during the afternoon to examine the industrial work of the children, on display in the 23 tents about the field, and to attend the performance of "Little Red Riding Hood." The return to the playgrounds was made in chartered cars which left from De Baliviere and Pershing avenues.

Satin Rules in the Land of Frocks

Excellent Values at $39.75, $45 and $59.75

TO be draped in soft, rich folds of Satin is to be becomingly gowned this Autumn. Sweeping and gracious does it appear at tea and dinner tables, trig and practical at less formal occasions.

In the Costume Salon, satin radium, satin meteor and satin faced crepe are generously assembled, benignly conscious of their own superior rank.

For the "about town" frock to slip into when Summer things have become passe—our showing at the prices quoted is exceedingly interesting.

Here is one which is smartly tailored and turns to frills only when it plaits the apron tunic (which it wears on the sides)—there a lustrous navy affair finds just the correct amount of trimming in groups of cords—and over here a bit of embroidered Georgette, or a lace vest in turn, make splendid frocks, in navy, black, brown and taupe. Every Dress claims effectiveness of line and material, and more than that—the purchasing price is very advantageous.

All sizes are represented.

REALTY CONVEYANCES SET ASIDE BY COURT

Requests to Two Daughters Revoked; Two Others Claim Mother Was Influenced.

A decision handed down yesterday by Circuit Judge Shields set aside the conveyances of realty made by the late Mrs. Margaret Halpin to her four daughters. The action was taken in a suit filed by two of the daughters, Mrs. Joseph Canty and Mrs. Martin Boeckmann, who alleged that a third sister, Miss Julia Halpin, had unduly influenced their mother to sign the deeds of conveyances.

The consideration specified was "love and affection." Gladys B. Arnold, attorney for the plaintiffs, estimated the value of the realty conveyed at more than $70,000. Miss Catherine Halpin was named as co-defendant with Julia.

By the decision Julia Halpin loses title to realty at 2205 University street, 2909 North Twenty-second street, 1505 Chestnut street, and at Romaine place and Holliamont avenue. Catherine has to surrender title to realty at 1517 Chestnut street and, further, she must divide the proceeds she received from the sale of realty at 4237-39 Page boulevard equally among her sisters.

Part of Property Sold.

The Page property also had been deeded by Mrs. Halpin to Catherine.

who later sold it for $3500. The deeds of conveyance were executed by Mrs. Halpin to the defendants Nov. 30, 1917. Subsequently she conveyed title to two other pieces of realty on Chestnut street to the plaintiffs. The latter contended that the conveyances to them were at the direction of their sister, Julia, for the purpose of effecting what would appear as an equitable distribution. In filing the suit they voluntarily surrendered title to this property. All of the realty in the suit now becomes part of Mrs. Halpin's estate.

Say Mother Was Influenced. Mrs. Halpin, who died July 23 last, left a will, but it was set aside by a jury in the Probate Court on petition of Mrs. Canty and Mrs. Boeckmann, who alleged that their mother was not of sound and disposing mind when she executed the document and that she was easily influenced by their sister Julia. The will disposed of property apart from that conveyed by the testatrix to her daughters before her death.

The plaintiffs alleged that the will gave to Julia Halpin realty assessed at $40,000 and to her sister Kate realty valued at $25,000, while Mrs. Canty received only $1 under the will and Mrs. Boeckmann realty at 5975 Cote Brillante avenue and 5737 St. Ferdinand avenue.

Miss Julia Halpin denied that she influenced her mother in any way. She and her sister have appealed to the Supreme Court from the jury's action setting aside the will and it was stated that they probably would appeal from Judge Shields' decision in the divestiture of title case. Mrs. Halpin was the widow of James Halpin, a furnace manufacturer.

CITY HOSPITAL PATIENT KILLS SELF IN LEAP

Alexander Karlander, Jumps From Third Floor Window to Granitoid Walk.

Alexander Karlander, 41 years old, who had given his address as 4936 Tyrolean avenue, jumped from a third floor window of the city hospital and was killed at 10 a. m. today. He appeared at the hospital last night and asked for shelter and treatment. He complained of queer noises in his head and said he feared mental trouble. He was placed in the neurological ward.

This morning Dr. P. P. Tittington, an interne, took Karlander into a room adjoining the ward to examine him. The doctor had completed his examination and turned to escort Karlander back to the ward when he heard the crash of the window screen being knocked out.

Karlander had gone through the window. He landed on a granitoid walk in the hospital grounds and was dead when picked up.

OFFICE HOLDERS
CANVASED FOR CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Information obtained from Marsh the information that he had seen a list of subscriptions to the Barnes propaganda plan which was headed "Republicanism of 1920." Published by the Albany Evening Journal.

"But I do not believe," explained Marsh, "that the Albany head on those lists means any more than if it used one of my sister's names." "The Albany Evening Journal," he said, "appears to appeal to citizens of that city to build a church."

As possible electoral forces, Marsh advocated legislation closing the political parties all organizations engaged in collecting funds for political propaganda, and compelling them to make public reports of their finances. He also said that he favored strongly a law which would prohibit individuals from sending money for political purposes into states of which they were not residents, citing as an example of this practice $20,000, which he said Coleman Dupont sent to Indiana in 1916.

Books submitted by Marsh included a complete set of contributions to the Democratic treasury, and containing thousands of names. The witness and White told the inquirers that no limit had been fixed on the size of individual subscriptions, but that every check was scrutinized closely as to its size and source.

From the list Senators Spencer and Edge learned that the largest single subscription was for $20,000 from E. A. Rowe, a banker of Austin, Tex. Marsh explained that this amount had been made up by several individuals with the understanding that it was to be repaid from funds collected from general subscriptions in the state. When the machinery of the National Committee was set fairly in motion.

Contributors Mentioned.
The Republican investigators had Marsh identify other contributors, bringing out that Edward N. Hurley, former head of the Shipping Board, had given $5000, and James Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany, $2000. Then a subscription of $1000 by William G. McAdoo was mentioned.

"He is also a former office holder," remarked Marsh.
Marsh produced new copies of the photographs of alleged subscription lists to the expense of publishing of the Barnes book. Copies introduced several days ago had disappeared from the committee records.

He also produced individual pledges from a number of prominent men pledging definite amounts to the Barnes book fund. He read one signed by Jacob Ruppert, New York brewer and baseball magnate, promising to pay $1000.

Marsh, in introducing the list of pledges to the book fund suggested they violated the law against corporations subscribing to political campaigns, as some of the signers were individuals on behalf of corporations. He pointed to a subscription of $1000 from the Hudson Coal Co., by L. P. Dwyer, president.

He also called attention to the name of Christian P. Thompson, New Jersey lawyer, who, he said, "the Alien Property Custodian uncovered as having passed the money to buy one or two of the leading newspapers of the United States" during the war.

From the pledge sheets Senator Reed read the following contributions into the record: John D. Rockefeller, $1000; John D. Rockefeller Jr., $1500; J. Leonard Replogle, $2500; Jacob Ruppert, $1000; Peter Cooper Brice, $500; Samuel B. Colt, $500; John D. Rockefeller Jr., $1000; St. T. Sinclair, $1000; Murray Crane, $1000; A. Monell, $1000; Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, $1000; W. P. Jackson Saulsbury, $500; W. E. Calk, $1000; E. W. Rice, $1000; C. E. Doughton, $1000; Clarence H. Mackay, $1000; C. M. Warner, $1000; Walter C. Tagle, $1000; L. E. Lore, $500; John M. Bowman, $1000; J. L. Rockefeller, $1000; Percival M. Hill, $1000; William H. Rogers, $1000; Chauncey M. Depew, $1000; Edwin A. Berwin, $1000; C. L. Anger, $1000; N. J. J. $1000; Daniel Morgan, $1000; H. A. Vanzant, $1000.

The 22 subscriptions totaled $32,000.
Marsh told the committee the special train, which will be used to transport Gov. Cox on his trip to the Pacific Coast will cost about $20,000. He said the exact figure would not be known until after the trip had been completed. The score or more special newspaper correspondents who will accompany the candidate and whose employers insist upon paying their way. He said the trip of Franklin Roosevelt, Vice Presidential nominee, cost approximately $2100.

W. D. Jamieson examined.
Requests for contributions from Federal office holders were sent under special delivery stamps for delivery at homes, instead of offices, to avoid conflict with the law. W. D. Jamieson testified that Jamieson, who was called to the stand primarily in connection with the interview published by the New York Times, which stated that he was paying from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 would be required to elect a Democratic President this year, also described the "Jamieson plan" of raising money.

Senator Kenyon questioned the witness about the expense of maintaining his financial collecting agency in Washington, and brought out that $150,000 was spent for furniture and equipment. That the payroll at its peak period averaged $25,000 a month, and that office rent at that height were $5000 monthly.

About 100,000 letters were sent to prospective contributors, he said. All letters to known Federal employees were special delivery stamps. "That was what would go to their homes," Senator Kenyon asked. "Yes."

"You thought the law prohibited the solicitation of funds by Federal employees?" "Yes."

"You thought this plan would violate the law?" "Yes."

"Did you have any advice to that effect?" "No."

members of the Civil Service Commission.
"Did they tell you it would not?" "No, they wouldn't commit themselves."

Senator Kenyon questioned Jamieson about the collection of funds by the Iowa Democratic Club and referred to the letter from I. W. W. Drenner, secretary of the club, to Miss Clara Boehle, postmistress at Norway, Ia. The chairman brought out that National Treasurer Marsh and E. T. Meredith, Secretary of Agriculture, were directors of the club.

Reading from the letter, Senator Kenyon quoted, "In order to comply with an old-fashioned law, I am sending this under a special delivery stamp."

The letter said the club had given $10,000 to the Democratic National Committee, while Jamieson said his figures showed $5000 received.

Marsh, sitting behind the witness, interrupted to say that the figures in the letter might be correct, and, in the exchange with Senator Kenyon which followed, declared that Jamieson was being "covered by the great Senator from my State," and that the witness was "intimidated."

Senator Kenyon asked Marsh about the letter and the treasurer replied that it was "a very bad letter written by an inexperienced boy, but out of all the hundreds of thousands of letters we sent out, you are only able to find two or three to which you might take exception."

Jamieson denied ever having said he planned to raise from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 for the Democratic presidential campaign. Jamieson declared he had said he wanted to get an army of contributors, and had, in fact, obtained about 300,000. Senator Kenyon asked if he expected to get $5 or $10 from each of the 300,000, but Jamieson reiterated no amount had been fixed.

Senator Kenyon introduced copies of various form letters sent out by Jamieson, asking the recipients to contribute amounts ranging from $25 to $300. One pamphlet accompanying a letter, said several million names were on the Democratic mailing list.

Senator Reed interrupted to ask what Homer Cummings, former Democratic national chairman, gave to the campaign, and learned Cummings' check was for $1000. Two hundred letters were sent to other men with incomes ranging from $200,000 to $1,000,000, asking them to duplicate Mr. Cummings' gift.

Jamieson said, but only six or eight responded.

Senator Kenyon asked about newspaper reports that Jamieson had met Bernard Baruch and Thomas Chadbourne in New York, and that they had "rushed to the financial rescue of the Democratic presidential nominee."

The witness denied having met either man for several weeks.

"Bernard Baruch was one of the largest contributors to the 1916 campaign, was he not?" Senator Edge asked.

"The second largest, I believe. I think he gave $50,000," Jamieson replied.

"How about Cleveland H. Dodge?" Senator Kenyon asked.

"What did he give?" "I have in mind $25,000."

"And Thomas Chadbourne?" "I think $25,000 to the campaign and $15,000 to the deficit left after it."

"William G. McAdoo has been mentioned here. What did he give?" "One thousand dollars to this campaign."

"What did he give?" "I have in mind $25,000."

COX WOULD PUT 'DIRT FARMERS' IN IMPORTANT POSTS

Says They Should Have Members in Federal Reserve Board and on the Commerce Commission.

WILL START TONIGHT ON WESTERN TRIP

Twenty-Two States to Be Visited Before Return to Dayton, Oct. 4, for Tour East and South.

By the Associated Press.
COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 2.—Gov. Cox today declared that if elected President he would appoint "dirt farmers" to responsible Government positions, including the Secretary of Agriculture and members of the Federal Reserve, and Regional Reserve Board, tariff commissions and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Democratic presidential candidate discussed agricultural questions and outlined his proposed policies in an address at the executive office to about 100 representatives of the National Board of Farm Organizations, holding a convention here.

Federal regulation of cold storage facilities, a fair test of private railroad ownership and operation and co-operative buying and selling by farmers was advocated by Gov. Cox. He also declared that business, labor and agricultural interests must have defined by law limitations which they can understand and stay within.

Declaring himself to be "a farmer and not an agriculturalist," Gov. Cox said he congratulated American farmers upon "ending their Rip Van Winkle sleep" and moving toward organized betterment of their condition.

Entitled to Representation. "Farmers are not only entitled to larger representation in government," he said, "but the public service will have its efficiency advanced by larger representation of agricultural thought."

Advocating appointment of farmers to the Federal Reserve Board and also regional boards, Gov. Cox added: "I mean by that 'dirt' farmers; you know what I mean."

"If wish there were more farmers on them now. A great many interests do not look with favor on my election because they want to change the law (the Federal reserve act) by making bankers only eligible for membership. Nothing could be more menacing to the farmer. The time has come for the farmer to have his feet under the table when policies are being made."

Needed on Commerce Body. Farmers are needed on the Tariff and Interstate Commerce Commissions, Gov. Cox said, to aid in advising, respectively, agricultural exports and transportation.

"I don't believe there is a man on the Interstate Commerce Commission," he said, "who knows much, if anything, about farming. I'm not criticizing the policies of the administration that have led to this thing, but I'm contrasting what is with what ought to be."

"If we want cars or other facilities for farm products, some good old hard-headed farmer who would know what we were talking about should be there. If anyone is contributing larger to interstate commerce than the farmer, I do not know it."

"More than this, I favor appointment of a dirt farmer as Secretary of Agriculture. You may recall I gave that policy in my speech of acceptance."

Turning to general agricultural problems, Gov. Cox urged "progress in government" which, he said, had been his exclusive task for the last eight years. He compared "hard pan" dirt on the farm and its treatment with dynamite to the "hard pan" of public sentiment.

Buying and Labor Questions. "The time is here," the Governor continued, "for farming to make the same development in efficiency as manufacturing, by buying as cheaply as possible, producing as much as possible in a working day and having a selling department on the farm. In the past farmers have had only one department, the selling."

"The manufacturer is the competitor of the farmer for labor. You can't get the help that you want unless you organize your business policy along the same fundamental lines. You've got to buy more intelligently than in the past, and that means you've got to buy co-operatively in America."

Agricultural sales, the Governor declared, are involved in the conduct of cold storage, grain and livestock marketing. Great industries, the candidate said, control their purchase of farm products and also control sales to consumers by "keeping the supply just behind the demand."

Urging Federal regulation of cold storage, Gov. Cox added: "Unsupervised cold storage plants have caused some city people to look upon the farmer, without any justification whatever, as a profiteer."

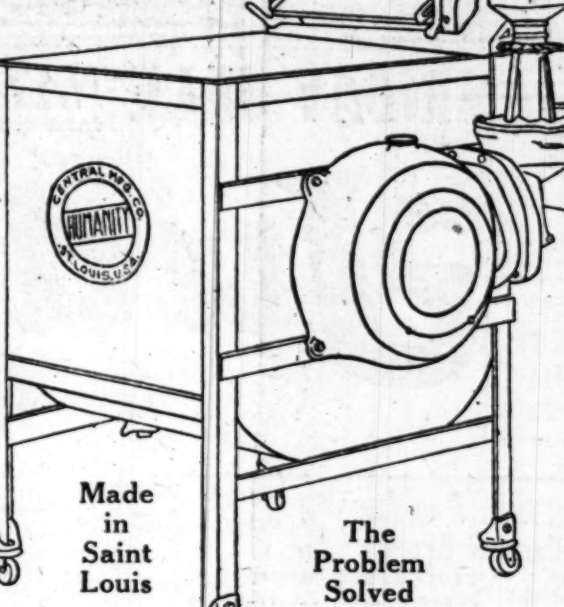

In discussing transportation problems, Gov. Cox said that more terminals and equipment are needed. "But private ownership," he declared, "is entitled to the very best test possible. If service and prices can be satisfactorily guaranteed to the public by private ownership—I think it has been demonstrated as best in practically all endeavors—it should continue and public ownership not now be thought of.

Development of Waterways. Gov. Cox also urged further development of waterways with Federal aid, particularly in the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River.

Advocating a definite statutory declaration of business conduct, Gov. Cox said:

"Farmers, laboring people and the public must know their limitations. Instead of spying and snooping around to see who is violating the law, we ought to give help by telling you how far you can go and let business and labor know how far they can go."

The Governor was addressed on behalf of the farm organizations by A. C. Davis, Gravette, Ark., who referred to the farm organizations' questionnaire sent to all presidential candidates before the conventions and primaries with questions regarding what farmers might expect from the candidates.

Davis also assured the Governor that reports, given by representatives of the farm organizations, that formation of a "gigantic trust" of farmers was contemplated were untrue.

After his talk with the farm representatives, Gov. Cox went to the Ohio State Fair and presented the "Governor's Cup" for a contest in a race of Ohio-bred horses.

The Governor will have a private car, the Federal, used in the past by President Wilson and former President Taft, and at least two other cars for others of his party, including the Governor's secretary, Charles E. Morris; Joseph J. Stinson, representing the Democratic National Committee, a score of newspaper correspondents, stenographers, publicity assistants and others.

The Governor's tour opens on Friday in Michigan. He will be met at Toledo by a State committee, and after rear platform addresses at smaller towns en route, he will speak about noon at Jackson, at an open-air gathering, and make two afternoon addresses at Lansing. On Saturday the Governor will speak at Milwaukee, spend Sunday at Chicago, on Monday, Labor day, in the Twin Cities, making his principal address there at the Minnesota State Fair.

On the Western "swing," the Governor will visit, in order, the principal cities and many of the minor ones in North Dakota, Montana, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Utah, Nevada, California, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming, Nebraska, South Dakota, Iowa, Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, closing his trip Oct. 3 at St. Louis.

Roosevelt to Speak in East. While Gov. Cox is West, his running mate, Franklin D. Roosevelt, will be speaking in the East, with plans for a conference at Dayton, Oct. 4 or 5, before Mr. Roosevelt makes another Western trip. The Governor will spend October in the Middle West, East and some of the Southern States. Both candidates are to close their campaigns in their home States on Saturday, Oct. 10.

Gov. Cox, during the last month of campaigning, made 31 addresses in Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and New York, traveling nearly 4000 miles, including about 500 by automobile.

TWO EARLY AUTUMN WEDDINGS SOLEMNIZED

Miss Harriet Wickard and Miss Julia Burns Brides in Morning Ceremonies.

TWO of the early fall weddings took place this morning. Miss Harriet Wickard and Robert Carter of Minneapolis were married at 10:30 o'clock and Miss Julia Burns was married to Arthur F. Stoeffel of Racine, Wis., at noon. The Carter-Wickard marriage was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Wickard of 5885 Nina place, by the Rev. Father O'Conner in the presence of the immediate families. The bride's only attendant was Miss Gleen Wrape, and Mr. Carter's father served as best man. The bride wore a brown duvetyne suit trimmed in beaver, with a turban of red duvetyne. She carried a bouquet of white lilies. The bridesmaid wore a dark blue beaded georgette gown with a large hat to match. The ceremony was followed by a breakfast for the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Carter departed on a honeymoon trip and will reside in Minneapolis.

The marriage of Miss Julia Burns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis N. Burns of 6129 Kingsbury boulevard, and Arthur F. Stoeffel was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. Dr. E. Combie Smith officiating. The guests included only the relatives and intimate friends. Miss Florence Burns, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and the bridegroom was attended by his brother, Lieut. Elmer Stoeffel, as best man. The bride wore a henna duvetyne dress with a black velvet turban, and carried a bouquet of white lilies. The bridesmaid followed the ceremony, after which the couple departed on a motor trip through the East. They will reside in Racine.

WOMAN ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF AIDING IN HOLDUP

Accuser Says He Was Walking Home With Her When "Husband" Appeared and Robbed Him.

Mrs. Celia Haloftis, 28 years old, of 917 Benton street, was arrested near her home at 11 o'clock last night at the instance of Fred Fort, an ice and coal dealer of 1204 Chambers street, and was held pending investigation into a holdup in which Fort alleges he was robbed of $3.40 and a watch while escorting her.

Fort said he met Mrs. Haloftis at a carnival on Brooklyn near Eleventh street and while walking home with her was stopped by a man near Tenth and Chambers streets.

"What are you doing with my wife?" he said the man demanded. "Nothing. Just walking home with her," Fort said he replied, whereupon he said the man demanded money and Fort started to walk away. The "husband" drew a revolver, Fort said, and robbed him. Fort hunted up a policeman and started for the Haloftis home, pointing out the woman to the policeman. Mrs. Haloftis insisted there had been no holdup of any kind and denied that any occurrence of the kind described by Fort had happened.

NEGROES, CHARGING FRAUD, ASK MAYOR TO OUST SLATER

Delegation From Seventeenth Ward Republican Club Visits City Hall—Told to Go to Grand Jury.

More than 50 negroes, including five ministers, several lawyers and doctors, representing the Seventeenth Ward Republican Club, yesterday afternoon visited the city hall and laid before Mayor Kiel charges that fraud had been committed by judges of election in a number of precincts in the ward, that Frank M. Slater, Republican City Committeeman, was the beneficiary of the frauds, and demanded that Kiel exert his influence to compel Slater to resign.

When the Mayor said that while he believed the negroes had been wronged by the frauds, he could do nothing and advised them to go before the grand jury with their complaints, several negroes told him they could no longer be expected to vote the Republican ticket if Republican election officials would not count their votes as they cast them.

"If you won't do anything, we will put you right along with Slater," one said to the Mayor.

Charges Are Enumerated. The particular charges were: In a number of precincts Ernest Patillo, negro candidate for committeeman against Slater, was refused the right to have watchers in the polling places.

In other precincts in which watchers were permitted they were ousted without the judges began counting the votes; that the curtains were drawn and votes were fraudulently counted.

In some precincts judges fraudulently marked ballots.

That judges and clerks in precincts in which negroes received a square deal were not recommended for reappointment by Slater, and that the Board of Election Commissioners supported him in his action by accepting his recommendations.

That in the Fifteenth Precinct nine more votes were counted than were cast, and that the total vote of the precinct was not counted as cast.

That in the same precinct there also was a Democratic slate, John M. Atkinson for Governor and Breckinridge Long for Senator, each being given 40 votes and only one vote being counted for any other candidates for those offices.

That it made no difference how the ballots were cast, they were counted in many precincts the way the Slater organization wanted them counted.

The negroes were led to the city hall by Joseph McCoy, a white attorney, and former secretary of the Republican State Committee, who told the Mayor that he recently had been in the Southern states, where negroes were disfranchised by Democrats. He said conditions in the Seventeenth Ward were the same with the exception that Slater and the Republican organization was disfranchising the negroes.

May Refuse to Register. He said he had advised the negroes that if they could not obtain the removal of Slater and obtain guarantees that their votes would be counted as they cast them, their only recourse was to refuse to register. Unless they were registered, he said, they could not be counted, and they might as well not be registered as to have their votes counted in opposition to their wishes.

Capt. Walter Lowe, a negro, asked the Mayor: "Can't you ask Slater to resign?" I take it as a fact that his brother, Joseph Slater, was appointed Superintendent of Streets in your administration through the influence of Frank, the Committeeman. Can't that situation be used to get Slater out of the committe?"

When the Mayor replied that he could not and that Joseph Slater was not appointed through Frank Slater's influence, but because he was a competent engineer, Lowe replied: "That's strange. When I was a janitor here in the city hall, I was fired by J. N. McKelvey because I supported a candidate against Slater. I came down to see you and you told me I would have to see Slater."

Lowe said that in his precinct 105 negroes had paid money to aid in the campaign of Ernest Patillo, a negro, for committeeman against Slater, but that the judges counted only 12 votes for Patillo in the precinct.

Told to Do "Right Thing." Mrs. Grant Bledsoe, president of the women's organization of the Liberty League, said to the Mayor: "We would not like the men. You can't buy us with $5 or a subscription to the church. We demand a square deal and our right. I've heard you speak, Mr. Mayor, at the A. M. E. Zion Church, and I thought you wanted to do the right thing. If you don't do something we'll put you right along with Slater."

Key. B. F. Abbott, who was an election judge in the fifteenth precinct, said that, although only 170 Republican votes were cast in the precinct, 179 were counted. He said he counted 41 of the ballots and then turned them over to another man to verify his count. He said the only votes A. W. Lloyd, negro candidate for the Board of Aldermen, received in that precinct, were those in the 41 ballots he counted. He refused to sign the returns, and he was not recommended for reappointment, he said.

ARDELIA IN ARCADY

Josephine Dodge
Daskam Bacan...

SECOND INSTALLMENT.

A BARE-LEGGED boy in blue overalls and a wide straw hat then drove them many miles along a hot, dusty road, that wound restlessly through the parched country fields. To the young woman's remark that they needed rain early he replied, "Yep!" and held his peace for the following hour. Occasionally they passed another horse, but for the most part the only sight or sound of life was afforded by the pens clacking angrily as the travelers drove them from their dust baths in the powdery road. At last they turned into a driveway, and grew up before a gray, wooden house. Ardelia, cramped with sitting still, was lifted down and escorted up the shingle walk to the porch. A spare, dark-eyed woman in a checked apron advanced to meet them.

"Terribly hot today, ain't it?" she sighed. "I'm real glad to see you, Miss Forsythe. Won't you cool off a little before you go on? This is the little girl, I s'pose. I guess it's pretty cool to what she's accustomed to, ain't it, Delia?"

"No, I thank you, Mrs. Slater; I'll go right on to the house. Now, Ardelia, here you are in the country. I'm staying with my friend in the big white house about a quarter of a mile farther on. You can't see it from here, but if you want anything you can just walk over. Day after tomorrow is the picnic I told you about. You'll see me then, anyway. Now run right into the grass and pick all the daisies you want. Don't be afraid; no one will drive you off this grass!"

The force of this was lost on Ardelia, who had never been driven off any grass whatever; but she rather than she was expected to walk out into the thick, rank growth of the unmowed sideyard, and strode downward obediently, turning, when in the exact center of the plot, for further orders.

"Now pick them! Pick the daisies!" cried Miss Forsythe excitedly. "I want to see you."

Ardelia looked blank.

"Huh?" she said.

"Gather them! Get a bunch! Oh, you poor child! Mrs. Slater, she doesn't know how!" Miss Forsythe was deeply moved, and illustrated by picking imaginary daisies on the porch. Ardelia's quick eyes followed her gestures, and, stooping, she scooped the heads from three daisies and started back with them, staring distrustfully into the depths of the thick, clinging grass as she pushed through it. Miss Forsythe gasped.

"No, no, dear! Pull them up! Take the stems, too!" she explained. "Pick the whole flower!"

Ardelia bent over again, tugged at a thick-stemmed clover, brought it up by the roots, recovered her balance with difficulty and assaulted a neighboring daisy. On this she cut her hands, and sucking off the blood angrily, she grabbed a handful of coarse grass and, plowing through the tangled mass about her feet, laid the spoils awkwardly on the young lady's lap.

Miss Forsythe stared at the dirty, trailing roots that stained her linen skirt and sighed.

"Thank you, dear," she said politely, "but I meant them for you. I meant you to have a bunch. Don't you want them?"

"Naw!" said Ardelia decidedly, nursing her cut hand and stepping with relief on the smooth floor of the porch.

Miss Forsythe's eye brightened suddenly.

"I know what you want!" she cried. "You're thirsty! Mrs. Slater, won't you get us some of your good, creamy milk? Don't you want a drink, Ardelia?"

Ardelia nodded. She felt very tired, and the glare of the sun seemed reflected from everything into her dazed eyes. When Mrs. Slater appeared with the foaming yellow glasses she wound her nervous little hands about the stem of the goblet

Here Is Mrs. Edward F. Hutton's Advice to Housekeepers

Give Card Parties for Bridget;
Let the Chauffeurs Go Joy Riding;
Dancing for Cooks and Butlers

The Most Unique Display of Generosity Ever Seen Was When Mrs. Hutton Recently Gave a Ball for Her Servants at Camp Good Hope, Saranac Lake; Five-Piece Orchestra in Everything.

By MARGUERITE MOORE MARSHALL.

BRIDGE parties for Bridget!

Also a tame outfit board, and every Saturday night a fox-trot, a cat-step and a camel walk. Let the chauffeur go joy-riding when you are not using the car (he'll do it anyway). For if you want to keep your servants, you should keep them entertained.

That, apparently, is the moral of the most unique affair chronicled in the social columns during the past week. This function was the servants' ball held in the Adirondacks at Camp Good Hope, the beautiful summer residence of Mrs. Edward F. Hutton, wife of the New York broker.

For miles around all motor boats and motor cars led to the Hutton camp the other night, and all the gentlemen's gentlemen and ladies' ladies in the Adirondacks met in the spacious, beautifully decorated Hutton garage and danced their slippers to pieces. Chauffeurs and cooks, housemaids and kitchen maids, several canes of butlers foregathered and frolicked to their hearts' content.

The goddess behind the machine, according to the servants' grateful testimony, was the beautiful and popular Mrs. Hutton herself. Her employees had only to express the desire to have a party and she did the rest.

She put the garage at their disposal. Bales and pine boxes were brought in from the woods and fastened about the walls and ceiling. The floor was oiled, and at Mrs. Hutton's personal suggestion several canes of butlers foregathered and frolicked to their hearts' content.

MAXIMS OF A MODERN MAID

By Marguerite Moore Marshall

IN the punctuation of love a kiss may be an exclamation point, a comma (a short pause) or a period (full stop).

Being a wife is the only profession in which it is the general rule that those who the least work receive the largest financial reward.

There are still plenty of young and pretty women who, when a man is listening, deny vehemently that they will ever vote.

In the B. V. (Before Volstead) days drinking was not compulsory, but since Prohibition the most temperate know that from the hospitality of home-brewing friends there is neither escape nor respite.

The proverbial hen who hatched ducklings is no more disconcerted than the man who marries a woman equipped with a self-starting mind—and who then tries to crank her up.

Neither the prettiest girl nor the best dancer, nor even the richest girl has the ghost of a chance against the young thing who can make the wildest woman exclaim most convincingly: "Oh, isn't it WONDERFUL to be a man!"

In love, she laughs best who laughs where no lover hears her.

Alimony is the only rebate offered the woman who gets a divorce for her past expenditure of effort, faith and love.

Men conductors and motormen on the street cars in Tokyo, Japan, are now independent of the company is now entertaining a plan to replace them with women.

The Tokio Street Motor Car Co. has employed women conductors on its buses for some time with economy and increased efficiency.

Striped Chipmunk Proves His Friendship.

He on whom you can depend.

Is the only worth while friend.

—Peter Rabbit.

Striped Chipmunk raced along whole thing over. He was watching out in front of him, but he wasn't watching behind him. He saw Striped Chipmunk saw his danger right away. "If I call to him," thought Striped Chipmunk, "he will run back straight into Black Pussy's claws. I'll have to do something myself."

Striped Chipmunk began to run again. He scampered along that old stone wall straight toward Black Pussy. Black Pussy didn't see him because she was so intent on creeping upon that little Rabbit. She didn't see him until he suddenly popped up from between two stones almost in her very face. Black Pussy forgot that young Rabbit. She sprang at Striped Chipmunk. Striped Chipmunk suddenly dodged down between the stones of the old wall and popped up again not one good jump away. Again Striped Chipmunk dodged. So little by little he led Black Pussy away from that patch of sweet clover, and called time he called her bad names. Of course, the little Rabbit heard. He couldn't help but hear. At first he sat perfectly still. You see he didn't dare to run back to the old stone wall with Black Pussy there, and there was nowhere else for him to run. But as soon as Striped Chipmunk had led Black Pussy far enough away, the little Rabbit bolted into the old stone wall to his old hiding place. Striped Chipmunk saw him go. The next time he disappeared he didn't reappear. He had saved the little Rabbit. And he was through with Black Pussy.

Peeping Pansy Fairy Tales

BY MARIE, QUEEN OF ROUMANIA

Pansy Sees the Mushroom Cutters at Work.

A TROOP of little men of all ages, with axes on their shoulders came tramping along, picking their way in and out between the tree roots and the scarlet mushrooms.

"They have come to rest," explained Pansy, "and they will all be quite ready to sing, and after that I shall show you all the other mushroom plantations. This is Father Wrinkles, our chief," and Pansy led Pansy up to a delightful old man no taller than a blackbird and whose face was marked with a thousand wrinkles. He had a long gray beard and a humorous smile. All the other little men were also smiling and laughing. Pansy had never seen a merrier company.

"And what is your name?" asked Father Wrinkles in a genial voice. "You are a lovely little lady, and if your name is as sweet as your face we shall compose a song in your honor."

"I am called Pansy," said that person, blushing with pleasure. "A gracious name, indeed," the old man assured her; "and now who will step forth and sing to Pansy?"

One of the little men stepped out of the circle that had formed itself around Pansy and her companions. He had the kindest, most jolly face Pansy had ever seen. Like Pansy he was dressed in russet-brown leather, but he was younger and better looking and had curly locks the color of beech nuts.

"I shall sing the song to Pansy," he said, "and my name is Lorry, and I am the happiest little man in all the world. Sit down, Pansy, of my heart, and be welcome amongst us."

"Welcome, welcome, Pansy, sweet Pansy!" cried the mushroom planters in joyful chorus, forming down their axes and grouping themselves around their guests.

Lorry stood with his back against the broken trunk of a mushroom and began singing:

"Did the earth make thee?
Did the sun bake thee?
Did the breeze bring thee?
Or the storm fling thee
Into our midst?"

"Did the angels bless thee?
Did the imps curse thee?
Did the white snows swoon thee?
Did the wild winds throw thee
Into our midst?"

Pansy they call thee.
Nothing appals thee.
Love was thy mother,
Truth was thy brother,
Luck it was brought thee
Into our midst."

O, Pansy! we greet thee
With flowers we meet thee.
For thy face is the morrow
Without any sorrow.
That for an hour we borrow
Out of the mist."

"Bravo, Lorry! Bravo, bravo!" cried all the little men, clapping their hands in chorus.

"Bravo, Lorry!" added Wrinkles; "you are a famous poet, and later we must have more of your songs, but now we are hungry and thirsty after a good day's work; it is time for refreshment—doubly so, as we have amongst us a sweet little guest. Bring Pansy, sweet Pansy, something to eat!"

Then began a hustling and bustling about. The busy little men ran to and fro, and between the giant roots of a tree mysterious dishes were brought to light, and tempting-looking cakes and sticky puddings, served upon scarlet strawberry leaves. Everything was so appetizing, and Pansy realized how hungry she was.

The sun was already low, so the mushrooms threw long shadows over the shining pinewoods that looked like an old golden carpet spread over the ground.

Pansy felt wonderfully at home amongst these cheerful little mushroom planters, and was bursting with a thousand questions, but everybody was so busy running about fetching the dishes that there was no one in particular whose attention she could attract for conversation.

Several little dwarfs together dragged a fallen mushroom trunk to where she sat and, spreading an orange handkerchief over it, they began serving her all sorts of delicious dainties.

The dishes they were served in, the clouds and the mists."

"And the stars and the moon," added Lorry.

"And the dews of the morning," said another.

"And the dawns and the sunsets," said someone else.

"And the songs of the birds and the colors of the flowers, and the colors of the wind," continued Lorry, who had thrown himself down at Pansy's feet.

"Yes, we love things and people, seasons and elements, sounds and smells, work and play, colors and songs," said Father Wrinkles, who was moving about amongst his followers, pouring out bright red wine into tiny glasses that had been handed round. The pot he was pouring from was bulky and shiny as a pumpkin.

"You all seem to be tremendously happy," said Pansy, with a sigh of content.

"Yes, we are," agreed Wrinkles, "happy because we are contented and have plenty of work."

"Sometimes old Mrs. Grumps comes to us in the night and scolds us all round; but then we laugh at her. As being that grumpy, till she is either obliged to join in the chorus or to fly away."

"Do sing me some more songs," said Pansy, who was thoroughly enjoying a delicious sort of nougat made of nuts and honey, which was so sticky that she could pull it out into long strings.

"Well, though I am old," said Wrinkles, "I will make a verse for Pansy before we go to bed. We'll go to bed early, so as to be up at daybreak, when the dew is on the ground. So listen, little Pansy, to what an old fellow sings about a little girl like you:

"As sweet as a rose,
As fresh as the dew,
I love her small nose
And her dimples, too!
She came as a bird,
And her voice was heard
As bells that are born
When the world is new."

Her hair is so bright,
Her touch is so light
That really she seems
All made of sunbeams.
Her eyes are two pools
Where every man cools
His thirst and his dreams,
And all that he seems
To have lost long ago."

Her heart is of gold,
And her soul, I'm told,
Is pure as a pearl
That small angels hurl
From far dewy heights
Where thousands of lights
Hang in lone longing,
Stars that are thronging
Regions belonging to God."

"Am I all that?" exclaimed Pansy, clapping her hands.

"All that and much more than that others will sing to you one day. Pansy, little Pansy; but now to bed let us go. See the light is dying out of the sky and the first stars are coming out. Have you eaten enough, little Pansy? Was your dinner good?"

"Oh, so good!" said Pansy, "and I don't think that I ever, ever had such a delightful party in all my life!"

"You will have a jolly little door to peep behind this evening," whispered, Pansy-Pansy into her ears. "Good-night! I am going to look after Sunshine and Tim and Cuspy, but tomorrow I shall come back at an early hour to continue our discoveries through the forest." And off skipped Pansy-Pansy, leaving Pansy to her new hosts.

ly-urged her on, and its icy coldness enabled her to finish the glass. She handed it back with a deep sigh. The young lady clapped her hands.

"There!" she cried. "Now, how do you like real milk, Ardelia? I declare, you look like another child already! You can have all you want, every day—why, what's the matter?"

For Ardelia was growing ghastly pale before them; her eyes turned inward, her lips tightened. A blinding horror surged from her toes upward, and the memory of the liquid ice cream and the frying onion faded before the awful reality of her present agony.

Later, as she lay limp and white on the slippery half-cloth sofa in Mrs. Slater's musty parlor, she heard them discussing her situation.

"There was a lot of fresh-air children over at Miss Simms' her hostess explained, 'and they 'most all of 'em said the milk was too strong—did you ever? Two or three of 'em was sick,' like this one, but they got to love it in a little while. She will, too."

Ardelia shook her head feebly. She had learned her lesson.

After a while Miss Forsythe went away, and at her urgent suggestion Ardelia came out and sat on the porch under the shade of a black umbrella. She sat motionless, lost in the rapture of content that follows such a crisis as her recent misery.

In a few moments she was asleep.

When she awoke she was in a strange place. Outside the umbrella all was dusk and shadow. The tall trees loomed vaguely toward the dark sky; the stars were few. As she gazed in half-terror about her a strange jangling came nearer and nearer, and a great animal, with swinging sides, panting terribly, ran clumsily by, followed by a bare-legged boy, whose thudding feet sounded loud on the beaten path. Ardelia awoke against the wall with a cry that brought Mrs. Slater to her side.

Correct Table Service

IN few departments of home decoration has taste made such strides as in the design of dinner silver, says a writer in Good Housekeeping. But harmony is the thing, and see to it, please, that your knives and your forks, your spoons and your service, fit in with your service plates and their companions, the vegetable dishes. Though the editors of various humorous publications still delight to picture a novice in the art of dining as embarrassed by a plenitude of assorted knives, forks, and spoons of various sizes and purposes, it is an open secret that, when the appetizer has gone and the soup is served, the table is cleared of cutlery, and each course that follows is served with its own appropriate silver.

Custard Filling for Cake

EAT the yolks of three eggs, add one tablespoonful flour, one-half cupful sugar, one cupful sweet milk and butter the size of a hickory nut. Cook in double boiler until thick custard; add one teaspoonful lemon extract. Beat thoroughly before putting on cake. For two layers.

THE COME-ONS CHORUS.

We're wary of bankers and banking;
We look upon bonds with distrust;
You never can know when the market will blow,
Or big institutions will bust.
But offer us any investment,
That will promise a thousand per cent.
And our homes we will hock to get hold of your stock,
With trusting and grateful content.

We never will question your methods,
What matters it how it is done,
Though the profits you say you are going to pay,
Are got with a club or a gun?
We aren't going to scruple with ethics,
While we toll to the end of our days,
This safe and sure stuff never nets you enough;
We want an investment that pays.

The fact that you may be a grafter
Is nothing to worry about,
You may, now and then, have done time in the pen,
But anyway, NOW you are out!
It isn't our business to ask you
If you have a rating or not
With Broadstreet or Dun, if you'll pay ten for one,
We'll trust you with all we have got.

And if you go South with our savings
Which, doubtless is what you will do,
Because we were rash with our dearly earned cash,
We will moan for a fortnight or two.
But soon we'll return to our labors
And save some more money, and then,
When we hear that some gent pays a thousand per cent,
We will do it all over again!

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—
Six members of the crew and four officers of the submarine who were imprisoned in the sea boat 42 hours, when she was partly flooded in making a dive miles southeast of Cape Henlopen, have been rescued and are aboard the battleship Ohio.
This afternoon the Ohio was preparing to tow the submarine in, as announced in the following statement: The submarine E. A. Fishback, U.S.N., 1:40 p. m., by naval authorities.
"All persons who were on submarine 8-5 have been saved. They are now on board the battleship Ohio. The submarine is now in latitude 38.30, longitude 74.02. Its position approximately 7 miles southward from the entrance to Delaware Bay. The Ohio has yet started to tow the submarine, but she is preparing to proceed immediately with the submarine to the harbor at the Delaware Breakwater."
An earlier wireless message stated that the submarine Albatross had rescued men on board and was heading to shore with the submarine in tow. It is presumed that transfer was made to the Ohio.
Radio messages flashed from army transport General George to the Philadelphia navy yard. Secretary Dillie's destroyers today of the officers and crew of submarine after they had spent two days locked in the disabled vessel.
It was after 3 o'clock this morning when Lieutenant-Commander M. Cooke Jr., who exercised his right of being last man to his vessel, was taken aboard steamer Albatross. Nine hours elapsed since the plight of the desperate boat had been made known through a wireless call picked up by an amateur operator in Farmington, Conn.
Among those who responded to the call of the General George was the steamer Albatross, which the army transport stood by the disabled vessel, and managed to reach grapple hooks to it. Holding the submarine in a position, a hole was bored through her plates and air pumped to the suffering crew, who by most given up all hope of rescue.
Meantime the call for help been picked up by the navy's fleet stations and by command Secretary Dillie's destroyers rushed to the rescue from Philadelphia, Newport News and New Bedford.
Before all these vessels had time to reach the scene, however, was flashed that all had been taken aboard the Albatross. The wireless did not how the rescue had been effected or what vessels besides the Albatross and General George's assistance. It merely told that a safe aboard the Albatross. No one was injured, although all suffered from lack of air. It was 11 o'clock when the first man was off the submarine and two hours later before Lieutenant-Commander Cooke left the vessel.
The text of three messages from the transport General George to the commandant of the Fourth District, at Philadelphia, last night and relayed to the Navy Department given out today at Washington. The first message, timed at 11:30 a. m., and other as follows:
"Was Making 'Crash Dive' At 3:24 a. m. the following message was received: 'All men on board the submarine Albatross are now on board the Albatross. Captain Cooke is recovering. None are injured.' The third message, sent at 4:30 a. m., read: 'Submarine 8-5 flooded while making crash dive 38 degrees north, 74 degrees west. Crew and officers rescued. Continued on Page 5, Col.
